Kotel Paradiso

Rehearsing a farce is in some ways like explaining a complicated joke to someone with no sense of humor. By the time it is analyzed, you begin to wonder why it ever seemed funny in the first place. But with a really good farce, this doesn't happen. For in the cause of perfecting the more obviously funny situations, quite unexpected ones suddenly appear.

So it has been with "Hotel Paraso." One's first reaction is that the plot seems outrageously corny, the characters unbelievably overdrawn, and the situation downright predictable. In fact, you would think anyone could dash off an equally good farce in a week.

But in the hands of experts, like Georges Feydeau and Maurice Desvallieres, these simple ingredients are whipped together into a dizzy confection. Each hilarious twist of the plot and each hysterical speech is carefully placed to form an essential part of the final wildly comical pattern.

It is evident that the authors succeeded. "Hotel Paradiso" has enjoyed continuing success and high critical acclaim on both sides of the Atlantic, as a musical, as a film, and most of

as the original farce we are pressing. The skillful work of these athors has been our reward and pleasure as we have been rehearsing. We hope it will be yours also, as you watch the BERA Theatre Group production on November 12, 13, 18, 19.

—R. Peierls, Director

Cooking Exchange Group

A meeting will be held on Thursday, November 3rd, from 3 p.m. until 5 p.m. at the Recreation Building in the Apartment Area. There will be a small charge of $.50 at each session.

Back To Standard Time

Next Saturday night is the time to move clocks back one hour: Eastern Standard Time goes into effect in the early hours of Sunday, October 30.

Supervisors of Lab personnel who work during the changeover period should refer to the Supervisors' Personnel Manual for correct time card reporting procedures.

Brookhaven Concert Series

Thursday, Nov. 3, at 8:30 p.m. Brookhaven Center

The Festival Winds

The Festival Winds are a unique combination of some of the finest woodwind players in New York City today. For many years, the basic ensemble used in the Festival Winds, including John Solum, flute, Melvin Kaplan, oboe, Morris Newman, bassoon, Charles Russo, clarinet, and Ralph Froelich, French horn, performed as the New Art Wind Quintet. From 1947 to 1957, this group performed throughout the United States, giving lectures, performances, and master classes.

Towards the end of this period, the group felt that limiting its repertoire to only woodwind quintet combinations was too restricting and so altered its format to include all the great masterworks of the woodwind repertoire. The Festival Winds was thus formed in 1958 with these same basic members to perform concerts with piano, harpsichord, and in various woodwind combinations of from three to eleven members.

The group has been honored by being asked to perform for the past six seasons at the Library of Congress, where it was greeted with great enthusiasm. Other performances have been given at the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the Currier Gallery in New Hampshire, the Free Concert Series in Chicago, the Washington Square Chamber Music Series in New York, and Dumbarton Oaks in Washington. The Festival Winds group has also been enthusiastically received at previous performances at Brookhaven. The program to be presented at Brookhaven this season will include:

Divertimento in E flat major, K. 289, Mozart; Sonata for two bassoons, Boismortier; Partita in F major, H II:15, Haydn; Sonata for two French horns, K. 496a, Mozart; two arias for two oboes, two horns, and two bassoons, Handel; Divertimento in F major, K. 253, Mozart.

Season tickets: adults, $10; children (under 18 years old), $5. Single admissions: adults, $3; children, $1.50; non-employee guests, $3.50. Refreshments will be served at the Center following the concert.

Indian Classical Music

A program of Indian classical music will be presented on November 6 at 8 p.m. at SUNY in Stony Brook in the gymnasium.

Ali Akbar Khan will play the sarode, an instrument resembling a 25-string banjo. Mrs. Rajdulari Khan will play a tamboura, a long-necked background instrument, and Mahapurush Misra will play the tabla – a pair of small drums.

Tickets costing $1 can be reserved by phone at 246-6786 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Dr. Rau Appointed Physics Chairman

Dr. R. Ronald Rau has been appointed Chairman of the Physics Department. He succeeds Dr. George Vineyard, who has Vineyard, who has retained the Chairmanship pro tempore since his appointment as Associate Director of the Laboratory last August.

August.
A member of the Physics Department since 1956,
Dr. Rau has been working in the development, construction and use of bubble chambers. In 1964, following a year as BNL representative at CERN – the European center for high energy physics research in Switzerland – he was appointed the Physics Department's Deputy Chairman for high energy physics.

Prior to coming to BNL, Dr. Rau was Assistant Professor of Physics at Princeton University. He spent a year at France's famous Ecole Polytechnique as a Fulbright Professor of Physics in 1954.

Rifle Club Wins Two

The BNL Rifle team's 13-match winning streak almost came to a screeching halt in the first encounter of the 66-67 Long Island Industrial League season. It was found, after the smoke cleared, that BNL had an excruciating 732-731 victory over IBM. Scoring for BNL were R. Domish with 187, A. Lukas with 183, P. Fallon with 181, and A. Finocchio with 181.

In their second match, Pete Colombo's team defeated Grumman by a somewhat larger margin of safety. Exerting their skills in the 743-735 win were R. Domish with 189, A. Lukas 185, J. Jacobs 185, and P. Fallon 184.

With keen intrateam competition for the scoring positions, Pete Colombo and Ed Hart are finding themselves hard pressed by newcomers Bob Medina and Jack Walker. All indication are that BNL will have another highly successful season.

Lectures Would Introduce U.S. Life to Foreigners

A free, eight-part series of discussion seminars designed to introduce political, cultural, and economic aspects of life in the United States to visitors from abroad is being sponsored by The International Center in New York.

The series is designed to give the visitor a chance to engage in candid dialogue with experts in the field. For example, the session on "The Mass Media and Informed Public Opinion" had as panelists Carey McWilliams, Editor, The Nation; Roy Rowan, Assistant Managing Editor, Life; Edward Stanley, Director of Public Affairs, National Broadcasting Company; and Edward G. Wilson, Executive Vice President, J. Walter Thompson, advertising agency.

For information on future seminars, call (212) CIrcle 5-4131.

Volleyball Leagues Forming

Entry blanks are available at the Recreation Office for your group to join the fun during the 66-67 season: all you need is a minimum of eight willing bodies.

Last season we had two leagues competing on Monday and Tuesday evenings immediately after work.

Each team played one three-game match per week. Most of the action was finished by 6:30 p.m.

Exact game times and days this year will depend on the number of entries received.

This season the action will be officiated by a staff of paid referees recruited from Longwood High School. BERA is defraying half of the officiating costs, supplying the game equipment and presenting trophies to the victors.

Plans are to begin the season on November 28th. The entry deadline is November 10th.

Lab Members Star In Bellport Production

Several members of the Lab have key roles in the Bellport Playcrafters' fall production of Moss Hart's and George S. Kaufman's You Can't Take It With You.

Charles Gould of the AGS has one of the main parts, and his wife Eleanore is portraying the role of his daughter in the play. The romantic interest is provided by the leading man Sam La Placa of Chemistry, while Mrs. La Placa plays the Grand Duchess Olga Katrina.

Other BNL members in the cast include Boris Lomonosoff portraying the loud and jovial Russian Boris Kolenkhov, Charles Zavesky as another member of this interesting group (his wife Luella is the stage manager), and Alf Christoffersen who will play the part of a G-man.

Tickets are now on sale in Bellport at Plain & Fancy and will soon be available at the Lab for the performances on November 3, 4, and 5. The production will be at the Bellport Junior High School Auditorium.
